Everything from lynching to martial law has been suggested for cleaning up Chicago.

Dan Moody, governor of Texas, declared that all that is needed for the job would be a couple of Texas deputy sheriffs and a Texas ranger.

Which reminds us of Captain Plugs in act three of "What Price Glory." Remember when the southerner appeared in his trench coat and the captain asked him where he hailed from? And when the shavetail said "Texas," the captain remarked, "Yeah, another of these Texans, who is willing to lick anybody but another Texan."

Years and years ago when the west was new, Texan was a word that sent many a shiver down a bad man's spine. For in some way a Texan had gotten the name of being a tough, bold, bad hombre—a man to be "sirred" and "yessed" unless one was quick on the draw.

More than one bad man slung two guns on his hips, wore a wide hat, said he was from Texas and started war upon the citizens until someone else declared war on him and they planted him in Boot Hill.

One of the old time "bad men," who however says he doesn't come from Texas, says he could clean up Chicago. This fellow said "bad man" is said to have run out of space on his gun butts to cut his notches.

Wonder just how long he would last before a Thompson sub-machine gun?

One of these days Chicago will be cleaned up. Something will happen some place—it may be only a minor insult—but the people will arise and clean up the city.

A law breaker can beat the law for a good many years, if he's smart enough—but in the end, he always pays.

WOMAN SETS NEW HOP MARK

BURBANK, Dec. 1.—UP—The women's record for a trans-continental airplane flight from east to west passed to Miss Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., society aviatrix, when she landed at the United airport here at 11:57 a. m. today. She broke the mark set by Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian flier who for a time was given up as lost on a flight from Havana to Florida. Mrs. Nichols' time was 16 hours 59 1/2 minutes, bettering Mrs. Keith-Miller's figure of 25 hours, 44 minutes, set on October 10, last. Both made stops enroute. Frank Hawks, noted aviator, who holds the record for men, is the only one holding a faster time than Miss Nichols for the trip. He also holds the west to east record.

BILL TO AID HARBOR HERE

Completion of a training wall and maintenance of Richmond harbor will be accomplished in the expenditure of $341,236.82, if the annual report sent to congress by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers is passed, dispatches from Washington reported yesterday.

No request for appropriations have been made for the coming fiscal year starting in June, and the $341,236.82 will be expended before May 1, the report said.

Cost of completing the training wall was set at $265,356.06 while $75,880.76 will be used for maintenance, the report said. Maintenance of the following was outlined: Reddressing channel bayward of Municipal Wharf No. 1 $15,000 and dredging upstream from Municipal Wharf No. 1, $60,880.76.

Reddressing, the report said was necessary due to the deterioration of the wind swept mud flats. It is expected that completion of the training wall will considerably lessen the necessity for almost constant dredging.

Work planned in the present appropriation is expected to benefit the harbor for a period of two years. Improvements already made have resulted in ocean going vessels being able to reach the harbor, which has brought a saving of freight charges of industries, the report stated.

An increase in water traffic in future years is expected to be shown due to the improvements, the report indicated. Wharf facilities are also expected to aid in the traffic increase.

Oakland harbor would be improved to the extent of $244,000 of which $190,000 would be used for widening of the outer harbor and $54,000 for re-dredging if the request submitted in the same report is granted by congress.

NEW FIGHT TO FREE PAIR TO BE STARTED

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—UP—The California supreme court in a 6 to 1 decision today refused to recommend that Warren K. Billings be pardoned from Folsom prison, where he has served 14 years of a life sentence imposed when he was convicted of a Preparedness Day bombing here, July 22, 1916, in which 10 persons were killed.

As a result of the decision Governor C. C. Young probably will deny a pardon petition filed with him by Thomas J. Mooney, convicted of complicity in the same crime. A supreme court recommendation for Billings was necessary because California law provides that twice convicted men, such as Billings, receive a favorable court recommendation before the governor may issue a pardon.

Use Decision Governor Young has announced several times that he considers the (Continued from page 1)

REDS RIOT AT CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—UP—In a hand to hand fight on the capitol plaza and grounds, police employed tear gas, fists and nightsticks to break up a demonstration staged by a screaming mob of more than 300 reputed Communists just as congress convened at noon today.

Not until the tear gas and police batons had been used freely and several demonstrators injured did the throng disperse. Eight of the rioters, including four women, were arrested while at least four others received hospital treatment after a running fight that extended from the capitol plaza to Peace monument, nearly a quarter of a mile away.

Tonight, capitol police patrolled the environs with sawed-off shotguns.

Solons Present The melee was witnessed by hundreds of persons on hand for the opening session of congress. Several senators and representatives were among the many who rushed to the nearest windows following reports that several shots had been fired. CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—UP—Coldest weather of the winter prevailed in the mid-west tonight.

The weather bureau said the cold which ranged from zero in the Chicago area to 18 below at Devils Lake, N. D., would remain at least for 48 hours more. Thermometers there will bounce up a few degrees, the weather bureau added, and a blizzard likely will pelt the whole area with snow.

Balzac Villa Is Purchased By U. S. Writer

PARIS, (UP)—Jonathan Daniels, holder of the Guggenheim fellowship in creative writing and son of Josephus Daniels, war-time secretary of the navy, has taken over the property at Ville d'Avray of Honore de Balzac for writing of his novel.

Daniels intends to write of the New South and its younger element which is as distinctly different from the youth of the North as it was in 1865. The novels of the Jazz age in the North do not, in his opinion, interpret the character of the young Southerner who puts much more finesse and art into his love-making, so Daniels is writing a novel with southern characters so that posterity will know the difference.

There has been a great penetration of northern ideas into the South, industrially, but the South remains the South of old, culturally," Daniels said.

"I doubt if any young Southerner could go to New York and move with the fast young set there and admit he was having a good time. We know more about life and love south of the Potomac than they do up north. I am writing about the true South, so that the world can see the difference."

Daniels hopes to have his novel finished by the end of winter, so that he can spend the remainder of his year of fellowship in travel.

Oil Station Chain Head Has Operation

OAKLAND, Dec. 1.—An attack of acute appendicitis kept William P. Durkee Jr., former Dartmouth star and vice-president of a company of service stations which bears his name, from seeing his Alma Mater play Stanford Saturday.

Durkee was stricken as he prepared to see the game with a San Jose man and was removed to a hospital here where he underwent an emergency operation.

C. D. HORNER TO OFFICIATE AT GRID GAME

Clare D. Horner, Richmond attorney and football official, will be one of the officials at the charity football game between the East and West Alameda teams at Alameda, it was learned yesterday.

A statement from the Alameda Elks, who are in charge of the game, was as follows:

"The Alameda Elks football committee have completed another major stroke in selection of a capable set of officials to take care of the offside plays in the annual Alameda East-West football game scheduled to be played at the Neptune stadium in Alameda on Sunday, December 14, for the benefit of the Alameda Kiddies Relief Home.

"Only two weeks left for final arrangements but the important question of football officials for this important classic has been answered. The troubles experienced last year due to the efforts of old man Pluvius in successfully erasing the goal line induced J. J. Larkin to place the heavy responsibility on O to Kierler to find officials, who know how to find where the goal line should be.

"According to Larkin, the efforts of Kierler, chief of the athletic activities in the Alameda high school, have come up to expectations. Tommy Fitzpatrick, president of Northern California Football Officials association promises to be present to help the cause. He writes that he has secured the services of Herb Dana, king of western referees, along with Rufe Klawans, Clare Horner, or Richmond and R. Harris, who will be ready and willing to help out in this worthy cause.

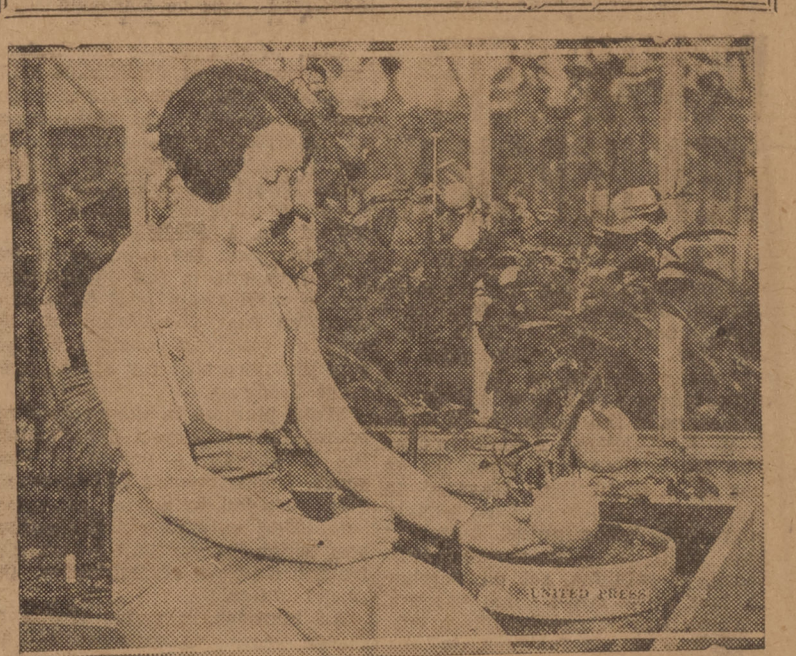

"While he admits that the West team won last year, George Donald, the giant and versatile captain of the East team, believes that he has a winning combination this year, but he insisted that officials of national reputation be secured to hold down the trickery of the western stars. The officials headed by Herb Dana, Rufe Klawans, Tommy Fitzpatrick, Clare Horner and R. Harris are acceptable to Donald, who conformed with Coach Freeman before accepting."

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1.—UP—Greta Garbo's picture in the sun bath was in somebody's possession today after a man had crawled to the place where the actress was tanning and snapped the camera when she sprang up suddenly after being disturbed by the intruder.

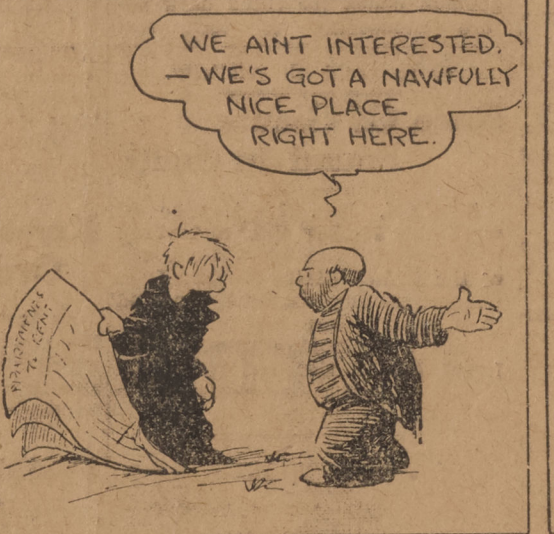

The call to Greta Garbo frightened her and she sprang to her feet but the camera shutter clicked before she could reach her room. The cameraman fled.

Germans Move To Establish Finance Aid

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—UP—President Paul von Hindenburg established a virtual "financial dictatorship" tonight when he signed a decree enforcing almost the entire economic reform program of the government.

The decree, adopted by the cabinet at Chancellor Friedrich Brüning's insistence, promulgates 26 laws necessary for the three-year financial reform program. The decision to promulgate the reforms under the constitution's article 48 was entirely legal, but admittedly abnormal.

It involves confronting the Reichstag with an accomplished fact, thus deviating from the usual parliamentary practice. The Reichstag is not now entitled to modify the semi-dictatorial decree, but merely to accept or reject it.

The Fascists and Communists at once announced their intention of moving that the Reichstag repeal the decree, and a fight was seen impending in the Reichstag.

The decree promulgates 26 laws at a single sweep. It was passed by the cabinet after an 11-hour session, and Chancellor Brüning took it to President von Hindenburg for signature. The president, who has been supporting Brüning's financial program throughout, immediately signed, and the decree now goes to the Reichstag.

The government's recourse to semi-dictatorial methods was regarded as due to a desire to show the world that the cabinet and von Hindenburg are determined to put the fiscal reforms into operation despite all parliamentary opposition.

The determination was attributed to the expiration at the year end of a huge amount of short-term credits in foreign banks granted to industry. It was believed the enforcement of these financial reforms would prevent further withdrawals of credits, and perhaps facilitate the renewal of needed loans.

led at the capital shortly before noon for a demonstration planned by the national convention for the protection of foreign born. There were no indications of trouble until 12 o'clock—just as congress convened. Then at a given signal the demonstrators formed in a mass at the foot of the capitol steps.

At the same time, many in the crowd produced placards bearing such inscriptions as "down with discriminatory legislation," "down with deportation," "freedom for all political prisoners," "down with fingerprinting of aliens" and "down with the rich committee." Waving these, the crowd started up the steps, led by a youthful Negro and an aged white woman.

Fight Starts

Fighting followed immediately as squads of police, re-enforced by snipers from several nearby precincts, grabbed the placards and trampled them underfoot. The demonstrators, particularly the women, fought determinedly for possession of these signs, and soon the police were swinging their nightsticks.

A moment later the east plaza was a struggling mass, men shouting and cursing in several different tongues while women screamed as the police continued to use their batons. The crowd, outnumbering the police, surged forward steadily until a police sergeant finding himself surrounded, drew his team gas gun and fired.

For a moment, the crowd fell back, evidently believing a shot had been fired. When they saw a bluish cloud of smoke arise, followed by the acrid fumes, many surged forward again. Other police then resorted to the tear gas and the Communists retreated slowly toward the House side of the capitol.

Women Injured

The police followed and for a time it appeared the excitement was over. But soon additional scattered fights broke out and by the time demonstrators, police and spectators reached the peace monument, several blocks from the front of the capitol, the Communists attempted a concentrated stand. Several women were struck down in the fighting there.

The demonstration had been planned at yesterday's session of the foreign convention and authorities were well prepared to cope with it. Long before the time set for the demonstration many secret service men were on duty in the capitol corridors, while outside numerous squads of metropolitan police were on hand to aid the capital forces headed by Capt. S. J. Nash.

The eight arrested were: Rose Markle, New York dressmaker; Rose Stein, Russian dressmaker; Helen Roberts, 17, Baltimore; Julia A. Whitfield, colored, John Zile, a Russian from McKeesport, Pa.; Dauda Kudlin, native of Turkey; Xonelo Florelo, Italian chef of New York, and Florelo d'Angelo, a cook of Akron, O.

rest they confiscated a complete "arsenal" and what police say was part of the loot of a number of robberies.

Woman Held

Mrs. Smith is said by police to have been the "blonde woman" who drove the getaway car in the McAvoy holdup. Her bail has been fixed at $100,000, a record sum. It is said that her case will go before the Federal Grand Jury today.

She has denied every charge placed against her, and declared that her name was Ellis. She said that she will fight all charges, declaring that police cannot "pin anything on her."

In the meantime police and secret service men are hunting the other three men who are believed hiding out in the bay region. Homes and flats in the vicinity of the Smith home in Oakland were searched by investigators yesterday in the hopes that the bandits were hiding there.

Woman Hunted

In addition to the men, one woman is being hunted. Police say she stopped her car in front of the Smith home shortly after he was arrested and then drove away. It is believed that she signalled other members of the bandit gang of Smith's arrest.

When police arrested Smith, two other cars followed them to Seventeenth street and Broadway, Oakland, police say.

There Smith made the break that resulted in his killing. He had apparently laid plans for such an emergency and had hoped to leap into one of the cars and escape.

Shot In Back

An autopsy performed by Drs. O. D. Hamlin and H. H. Appleford revealed that the bullet that killed Smith entered his back.

While the hunt is on for Smith's accomplices, information has been uncovered that has revealed a string of robberies that extend along the entire coast, several of which have been credited to the Jake Fleas gang.

Smith is said to have confessed before he was slain to a raid on the Calva distillery in Fresno in 1928 when more than $175,000 worth of liquor was stolen.

Trace Bandit

Smith was traced through the altered license number of an automobile used in the holdup of the postoffice in Tracy two years ago.

An X-ray photograph of an injured arm, found in the Smith home linked him with the Rodeo robbery. The photographs showed that Smith had been wounded in the arm.

Northern officials believe that Smith was responsible for the robbery of the Citizen's Security National Bank in Seattle on Sept. 15, when $44,000 was taken.

Woman Pilot Makes Landing On Native Island

Tuesday.

Mrs. Miller left Havana for Miami Friday morning and was not reported until tonight when a cablegram announced she was safe at Nassau.

Capt. Lancaster, business manager for Mrs. L. M. Keith-Miller, told the United Press tonight he received a cablegram from her via New York reporting her safe arrival at Nassau.

"Apparently she was picked up by a small fishing boat enroute to Nassau, and for that reason has been unable to communicate with us until she reached the island," Lancaster said.

"I had hoped all the time that she was safe. You see I knew the little girl. I knew she would not lose her head and that she would do the right thing in any difficulty."

"I never did give up hope, though the fliers down here who have been searching all over the territory for her announced they were almost certain she was lost in the Gulf stream."

CABLE SENT TO SPONSORS OF TRIP

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1.—UP.—Mrs. J. M. Keith Miller, wife of the Aerial Enterprises, local sponsor of her flight from Pittsburgh to Havana announced tonight, "Hanna safe at Nassau," was the cablegram received by the company from Mrs. Miller.

Mrs. Keith Miller left Havana last Friday, in bad weather, in her airplane, saying she intended to fly to Miami, Fla., and Pittsburgh, whence she had started for the Cuban capital.

Scores of boats and many airplanes have searched for her ever since, and thousands of dollars were spent by persons all over the Florida peninsula in the belief that she might have landed among the Keys.

Have abandoned by most searchers yesterday, and it was thought she must have perished.

Mrs. Miller's course to Miami was roughly north by east, a distance of 230 miles. A strong east wind was blowing, and it was thought she would be found, if at all, on the western side of the Florida peninsula. It was not known whether her airplane landed at Nassau, or whether she went there after a forced landing at sea or on land.

Nassau is approximately 300 miles northeast of Havana and 160 miles east-southeast of Miami.

HOLIDAY NOW SHOWING AT THE FOX

Evidence points to the fact that Pathe Studio executives have taken a leaf from the text-book of chemistry. In fact, they know their stuff. When they have assembled exactly the right elements for an exceptional product, the combination is kept intact and put to work.

One of last year's most lauded pictures was "Paris Bound" which was adapted for the screen by Horace Jackson from Philip Barry's successful stage play, Edward H. Griffith directed the screen version, with Ann Harding in the featured role. Now the Harding-Griffith Barry-Jackson combination has been re-assembled to bring "Holiday" one of last season's outstanding hits, to the screen.

Developing still further the working unit which resulted in the unusually fine quality of "Paris Bound," Hal Cooley, who played an important role in that picture, also appears in "Holiday." In addition, this picture was photographed by Norbert Brodin, who functioned in a similar capacity on "Paris Bound."

In addition to Miss Harding the cast of "Holiday" which will be on view at the Fox-California Theater for last times today boasts such favorites as Mary Astor, Robert Ames, Hedda Hopper and others.

GRUMPY WILL BE SHOWN AT THE FOX

Doris Anderson, who wrote "The Wolf of Wall Street," is the author of the screen play, "Grumpy" which the Fox-California theater will present tomorrow, with Cyril Maude, one of England's foremost actors, in the title role.

Miss Anderson made her adaptation from the stage comedy of the same name by Horace Hodge and Thomas Wigney Percival, who had completed the play in 1913 when Maude was looking for a vehicle to add to his repertoire for an American engagement.

The authors read "Grumpy" to Maude and he selected it for the American tour. He first appeared in "Grumpy" at the Theater Royal in Glasgow, Scotland, on September 19, 1913, during the course of a preliminary tour in which he tried out the vehicle to be presented in the New York.

His American debut was made as "Grumpy" at Wallack's Theater, New York, on November 3, 1913. He since has successfully played the role in London, and all of the large cities in the United States and Australia. His individual stage performances of "Grumpy" total approximately 1300.

In the screen version of this comedy Maude is supported by Phillip Holmes, Frances Dade, Paul Cavanagh and others.

Five Boys Held In Death Of Girl At Party

GARY, Ind., Dec. 1.—UP.—Mothers and fathers of children in their teens and early twenties looked with amazement tonight upon the sequel to a drinking revel which ended in the death of 15-year-old Arleen Draves, prefect of high school graduate and the holding of five young men from good Gary families on charge of first degree murder.

In the first flush of indignation over the tragedy, numerous parents in the "Steel City" expressed the opinion that parties similar to the one at which Arleen died are not uncommon among young people, nowadays.

The coroner's jury which investigated Arleen Draves' death today decided that the five young men who confessed to police that they had assaulted Arleen were responsible for their acts and should be held to the grand jury on charges of first degree murder.

The defendants include Virgil Kirkland, 20-year-old former high school football star and the one who escorted Miss Draves to the drinking party; and David Thompson, the host, a former high school friend of Miss Draves.

The fatal party began at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson who had been married only a short time and numerous unmarried friends. According to the accounts the defendants gave the police, a gallon of alcohol was drunk by the guests between nine and midnight Saturday. Carl Johnson, was arrested today in Indianapolis on charges of having sold the liquor to the Thompsons.

Young Kirkland made a full confession of his part in the death of Miss Draves. He said that he took her out on a porch to revive her. There, according to his story, he made the first attack.

WEST WINNERS IN AUDITION NAMED

Two California singers will represent the west in the national radio audition to be held in New York City Dec. 14.

Stephen F. Merrill, tenor, of San Jose and Esther B. Coombs, coloratura soprano of Long Beach were named winners in the audition held in San Francisco Nov. 17.

The two were identified by numbers only. Miss Coombs was No. 17 and sang "Shadow Song" by Meyerbeer while Merrill No. 8, sang Verdi's "Celeste Aida." They were voted the two best out of a score of singers representing 20 districts.

Miss Coombs is a junior librarian at Long Beach library, and has had only two years of musical training.

Merrill, a student at San Jose State Teachers college besides being a good tenor is also an athlete. He plays fullback on the college team, runs the quarter mile, pole vaults and hurdles on the squad, and is in addition a good basketball player. He is also a member of the college glee club.

YUMA, Dec. 1.—UP.—Marvin Matthews, six year old son of M. E. Matthews, Sentinel, Ariz., telegrapher was fatally injured at Aztec, Ariz., today when he was struck by an automobile, driven by Joe Albagnie, El Centro, Calif., Filipino.

He pointed a revolver at the driver and ordered him to halt. Deputy Sheriff V. Gael drove by when the unnamed resident halted the Filipino car. He picked up the boy's body and started for Phoenix. The lad died tonight in St. Joseph's hospital.

The driver and two companions, Felipe and Farita Abang both Filipinos were brought to Yuma and placed in the county jail. Police said a charge of manslaughter would be filed against the driver Tuesday.

Natural Ice Well Is Found

U. S. Engineers To Assist Red Steel Workers

CLEVELAND.—Ten Cleveland engineers and contractors have sailed for Magnitostroy, Russia, where they will assist in supervising building of a $200,000,000 steel works and mine development for the Soviet government in the Ural mountain district.

The American party is made up of men connected with Arthur O. McKee and company. It is the second party to visit the Russian town, the first having left three months ago. Before the project is completed, 80 engineers will be sent to Russia, it was said.

The new Soviet steel plant is expected to be one of the largest in the world, when completed. According to figures furnished by engineers, it will have an annual output of 2,500,000 tons of finished steel. Plans include construction of eight blast furnaces of 1,000-ton daily capacity, 360 coke ovens, 14 open hearth furnaces and other producing equipment.

Officials of the McKee company have pointed out that Russia's "five year plan" of industrial expansion is not designed to flood the world markets with cheap products, but primarily to supply the needs of the Russian people.

Magnitostroy is a town that has grown immensely in a few months. It now has a population of 30,000 and is said to be increasing at the rate of 5,000 a month. It is in the center of the Ural mountain region, near vast resources of ore and limestone.

Bank Of America Will Release Yule Club Funds

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—A sum in excess of $6,500,000 is to be released by the bank of America from one end of the state to the other for the primary purpose of helping to hide some 175,000 depositors over the financial hills and hummocks of the Yuletide season. The accounts are in the annual Christmas club of the bank, the deposits of which are distributed each year on or about December 1.

The introduction of this sizeable amount of new money into the holiday trade is particularly welcome at this time, and is expected to furnish a decided stimulus to Christmas trading throughout California. The sum is proportionately divided among the communities in which the bank does business, meaning that it will be generally distributed. The amounts to be distributed in San Francisco and Los Angeles will run in excess of $1,000,000 in each city, the San Francisco figure approaching $1,500,000.

As distribution will be made before the expiration of the current tax return period, it is expected that a considerable percentage of the fund will go for tax payments. The bulk of it, however, is expected to go into the holiday trade.

Considerably more than $100,000 each will be distributed in the East Bay, Sacramento and Stockton regions. The San Diego and San Jose districts should also run considerably above the figure.

A distinctive feature about the Christmas club was the manner in which the deposits were maintained throughout the year, despite the fact that there were many more reasons for withdrawing the funds than would have been the case in a normal year.

Three Held On Burglary Charges Here

An automobile chase after a car without lights resulted in the capture of three men who last night were in Richmond city prison charged with burglary after Walter Brown of South Fifty-sixth street, and Bay View avenue reported the loss of two pistols and holsters.

Howard Thullen and Arthur Peralta, El Cerrito officers captured Joe Page, 25; Ralph Encinoza, 22; and John R. Moreno, 23, in the chase along San Pablo avenue.

Report was made to Richmond police of the theft of the pistols and the three men were turned over to police here. Brown identified the pistols found in the men's car as his, police say.

It was reported that grand theft charges are held against the men in Oakland where it was said the car in which they were riding was stolen.

The three are to appear before Police Judge C. A. Odell today.

WOMAN CHASES BURGLAR IN NIGHTIE

OAKLAND, Dec. 1.—Although clad only in her night gown, Mrs. Jessie Joy McCracken when aroused from sleep early this morning by the sound of the family automobile did not hesitate to run to the garage where she saw the car moving away in control of strange hands.

For a moment she grappled with the driver, but he threw her to the pavement. Not to be outdone Mrs. McCracken jumped on the rear bumper of the car and rode screaming down the street.

The woman's cries attracted the attention of her husband and her 15-year-old son who were also in pursuit attired only in their night clothes.

Locked brakes kept the car from gaining speed, and the burglar soon gave up the attempted robbery and fled with the elder McCracken chasing him over fences and lawns.

"I would have caught him too, if I hadn't stepped on a piece of glass and nearly cut my toes off," McCracken said.

Investigation revealed that the intruder had visited several homes in the neighborhood of the McCracken place at 3032 East Nine-

Richmond Boy Makes Thrilling Parachute Jump

When you make a parachute leap and after counting three, pull the rip cord and find that nothing happens, pull again.

That is what Donald Shoemaker, did yesterday when he leaped 3000 feet from a plane at Clyde airport. Shoemaker bailed out of the craft piloted by Walter Hall of Oakland after his brother told him what a thrill it was to come floating to the ground in one of the contraptions, and pulled the rip cord after counting three.

Nothing happened and with a desperate tug Shoemaker pulled again. This time the chute opened and Shoemaker landed safely.

Shoemaker declared the thrill of the first jump was doubly enhanced by the failure of the chute to open on the first tug.

Last week Dave Shoemaker made his first leap and was the incentive for Donald making his trip. He lives at 1024 Barrett avenue.

Industrial Richmond Is Industrial Minded!

Read the December number of the Richmond United for a summary of what some of the leading local industries have been doing the past year.

It will be seen that Richmond has forged ahead, with many outstanding achievements during the period, and that local industries have been in steady production with large payrolls. At least one industry is passing through the business depression without laying off a single man from its regular force. Others have curtailed their operations, but the great diversification which exists among local industries has made it possible for a large percentage of the population to remain in employment.

In addition to the industries already established, Richmond has made the unique record of attracting two brand new industries—the Filice and Perrelli cannery and the Ford Motor Company. Actual operations were started by the former, and construction by the latter during the year just drawing to a close. In 1931 the cannery will have a full season's run and the Ford company will go into production.

We hear a great deal of the pessimistic side of the business picture. The Richmond United, official organ of the Chamber of Commerce, seeks to present the optimistic side in the December issue. This number contains reports from officers and committees of the Chamber and seeks to sum up the story of progress during the year, 1930.

WE ARE ABOUT TO ENTER A NEW YEAR WHICH ECONOMISTS AGREE IS TO BE THE BEGINNING OF THE GREATEST ERA OF PROSPERITY EVER SEEN IN THE UNITED STATES. SUPPORT YOUR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN ORDER THAT WE MAY GET OUR FULL SHARE.

So Long as They Both Do Love!

FOUR years is the limit of perfect marital happiness, according to Arthur F. Payne, psychologist at New York University. Or what's what dispatches quote him as telling a mothers' meeting at the University of Pennsylvania, the other day. The peak of divorce, he is further reported to have said, occurs the fifth year of marriage.

The cycle usually runs in a uniform manner—

The first three years are happy ones. The fourth year the couple decide to grin and bear it. The fifth year they give it up as hopeless. And go to court, agreeing to disagree.

Of all the counsels of despair to which we have recently listened. This seems the darkest—

We can hardly believe that it was advanced without qualification. And we simply cannot let it pass without protest. Four years the limit of perfect happiness in marriage—! It's a wonder these mothers, whom the psychologist was addressing.

Many of whom must have been married at least twice four years—

In a real marriage, at the end of four years, a husband and wife have everything with which they started—

"All the wonder and the wild desire." And they also have so much more: The loyalty, the congeniality, the tenderness, the understanding, the laughter.

Which make life together the "jester Burg," the impregnable fortress. Against everybody else in the world. And all its slings and arrows of outrageous fortune.

Even against the loneliness forever lurking for each individual soul. "Perfect marital happiness over at the end of four years"—don't you believe it, youngsters!

Of course, it's true in the case of some married couples— But then, the happiness of some 4 over at the end of four weeks—o even four DAYS!

They're out of luck, but they are NOT Everycouple. The first four years of married life will be the hardest, oftener than the happiest—

But at least they need be no mere exile to a fight to the finish. There can be, there is, a happier ending for marriage—

"As it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be, amen." "LOVE without end!"

Ever since modern bakery companies have produced a great variety of breads and fancy buns of excellent quality at a moderate price, housewives have let their acquaintance with yeast cakes lapse. Nowadays in many households yeast is just something that is talked about on the radio and advocated in its raw form as a source of vitamins, not a familiar ingredient in the kitchen. In fact, it has been so neglected that many of the readers who write to this department invest it with an air of mystery and act as if one had to be adept in some sort of little known magic to make yeast-leavened bread or rolls at home.

The only way to dispel that idea is to get a cake of yeast at once and make some home-made bread or rolls and find out for yourself what a simple and fascinating process it is. If you have the sort of temperament that makes cooking an advantage and not just a routine task, you will find that you want to do it often.

I am not going to suggest that the ingenu cook try her first on anything plain and uninteresting, because she can buy plain breads at any store. She can also buy fancy ones, you may add, but nothing you can buy at the bakery can compare with hot cinnamon buns that have just come from the oven.

These buns can be set and baked the same day, but as you may want to make them on Saturday and bake them Sunday morning for breakfast, I will outline that procedure.

CINNAMON BUNS

1 yeast cake
1/2 cup lukewarm water
1/2 cup evaporated milk, diluted with water
1 cup water
Flour (about 7 cups)
2 eggs, well beaten
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup melted butter
1/2 teaspoon salt

1. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Add sugar, salt, and lemon juice. Stir well.

2. Add eggs and water. Stir well. Add flour gradually, stirring constantly, until a stiff dough is formed.

3. Turn out on a floured board, knead back and forth three or four times, and roll out in a thin sheet. If the edges shrink back, press them out firmly. Brush with melted butter, sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon, and nutmeg.

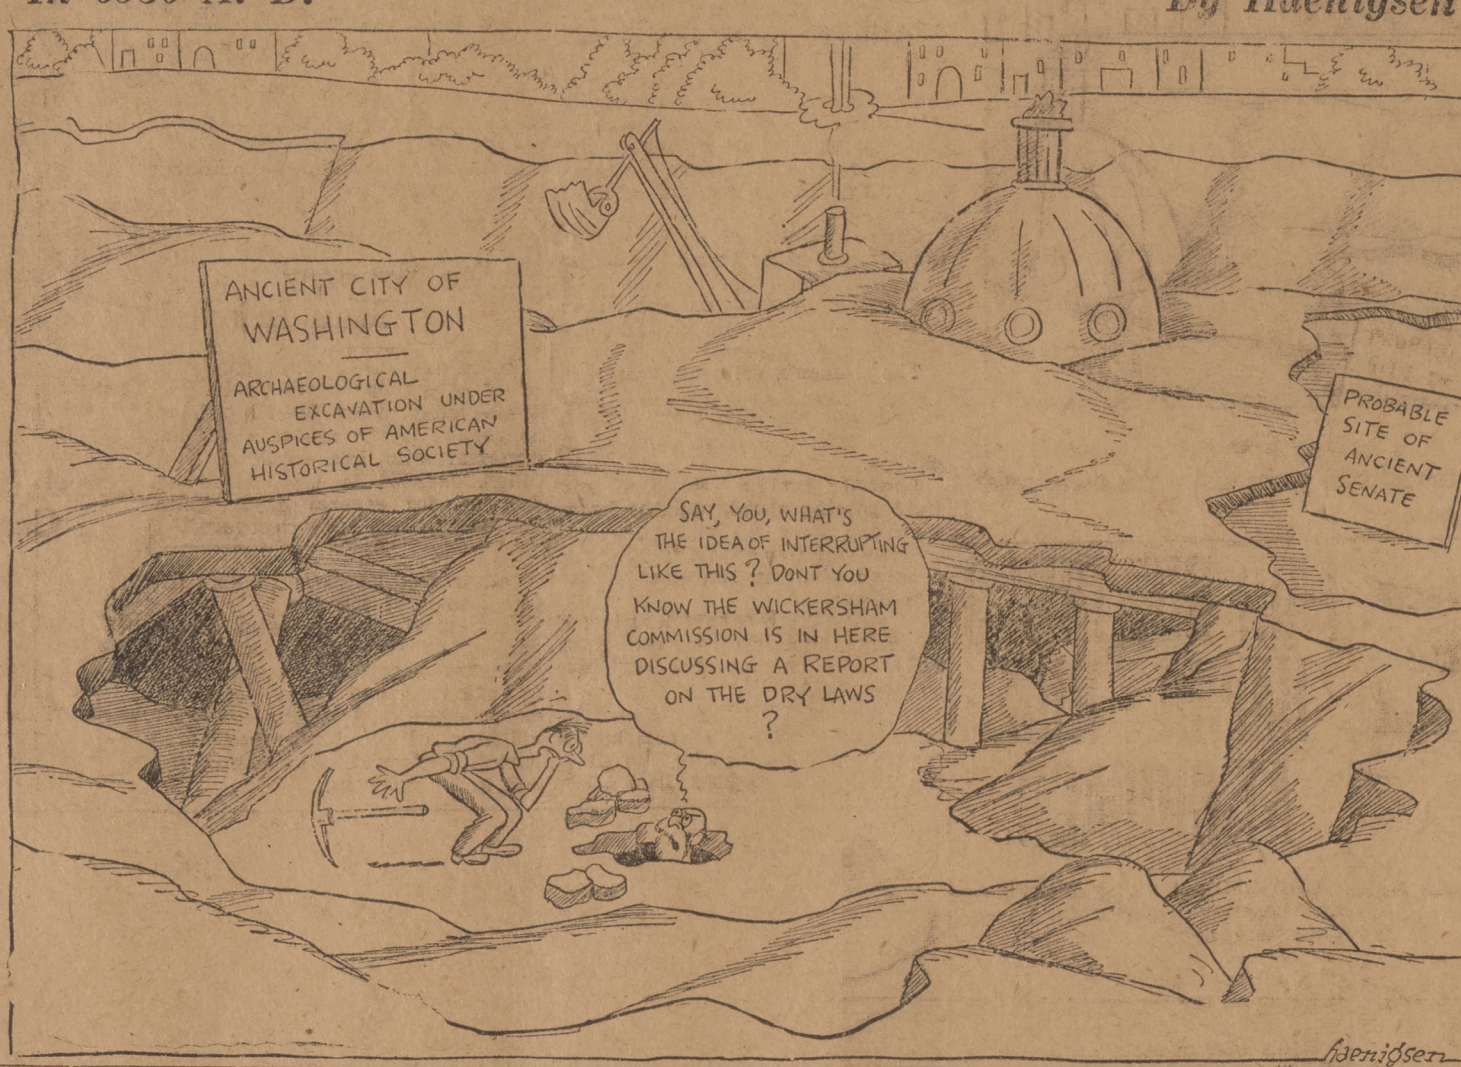

4. Roll up the dough into a tight roll. Cut into slices about two inches thick and place them in the pan with edges touching. Do not crowd them as they will be lighter if they have room to expand slightly. Cover and place in refrigerator overnight.

5. In the morning take them out and place them in the oven when you begin to heat it. When the oven is warm enough to take the chill off the baking pan, remove it from the oven, to let the buns rise while the oven gets hot. When the buns have about doubled in bulk, bake them in a moderate oven for about thirty minutes. Turn upside down from pan while hot, spreading on the rolls any of the sugar mixture remaining in pan. Serve while still warm.

6. The buns can be set and baked the same day, but as you may want to make them on Saturday and bake them Sunday morning for breakfast, I will outline that procedure.

7. The buns can be set and baked the same day, but as you may want to make them on Saturday and bake them Sunday morning for breakfast, I will outline that procedure.

Even in the Small Room the Catercornered Arrangement Should Be Avoided for Sake of Symmetry

By Alma Zais

IN THE SMALL ROOM A GROUP OF SHALLOW, MEDIUM-SIZED PIECES MAY SUGGEST AMPLE COMFORT WITHOUT CROWDING

Dear Miss Zais:

Inclosed find a floor plan for my living room; the walls of the room are cream and cerise. The room is so small (104 1/2 feet square) that I've had a good deal of trouble in arranging the furniture. In fact I've arranged and rearranged it until my arms ache and I'm not sure yet that it's just right.

The furniture I have consists of a sofa, an armchair and a Cogswell, all over-stuffed in mulberry mohair; a mahogany cedar chest, radio and end table and one round teakwood table; two floor lamps, a bridge lamp and a table lamp. I also have two very expensive paintings and a console mirror. Will you please help me arrange this room? Do you think the room too crowded?

A BRIDE.

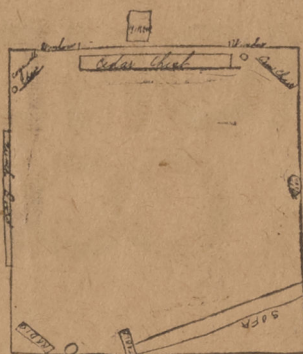

A Simple but Important Problem in Arrangement

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

WE make up our minds—and announce—that letters without names and addresses are not entitled to answer . . . and then comes an unsigned request for advice so eloquent that it sets aside all resolutions because help seems to be so sorely needed.

Who, now, could turn a deaf ear to the plea of this bride who has not only the handicap of inexperience and an extremely small room to contend with . . . but also a big three-piece overstuffed set all done in the same upholstery?

By the criss-cross placement of several pieces of furniture we surmise that she has but recently discovered the Home Decoration Service . . . for the floor plans now received with problems sent by regular readers rarely show that mistake, although at the beginning of the series it was the most common fault in arrangement.

Were we able to plan the furnishings of the bride's room from the beginning we would not, of course, select a full-size sofa and large overstuffed chairs of the same design.

There are many charming smaller sofas, both of the bed type and otherwise, that would be in better proportion for the ten and a half foot dimensions, and many chairs—trim of line and light in design—that would prove just as comfortable as the Cogswell and the overstuffed chair that match the sofa.

In the small room it is particularly necessary to avoid the sense of stuffiness that is caused by large and bulky pieces, and equally important to have a pleasing variety in color and pattern instead of so much sameness. Therefore, our problem is to take what we have on hand and so manage our scheme that these two results are suggested instead of the opposite effect which now obtains.

The diagram of rearrangement shows a disposition of the furniture that gives balance and comfort and provides room for an open arm chair, a coffee table and a desk or cabinet that is shallow and of medium size. If a modern note is desired, a cabinet-desk of the type shown in the illustration would be very charming and up to date; the new table and open-arm chair might also follow modern lines, and the picture gives a number of good suggestions for accessories in harmony. In fact, if we disregard the windows in the photograph, it would be entirely possible to plan a similar arrangement of sofa, small tables and chairs for walls A and B of the bride's home.

Three standing lamps are really too many for the room under the new arrangement. We should prefer to use only one, as indicated, and have another table lamp for the end table to the right of the open arm chair.

The teakwood table, if a fairly important piece, would be most effective between the sofa and the window, and then we might use a pretty low coffee table before the sofa.

It is impossible to guess the correct type of the mahogany cedar chest, but we assume that it is a fairly low chest on the order of a window seat. The mirror may remain above it, as shown on the original diagram, and on the flat top we would place a lovely bowl—either one of colored pottery or a glass or copper bowl filled with some exotic water plant or Chinese lilies. The chest needs no scarf or other decoration save, perhaps, a convenient box for cigarettes or a pretty treasure box or tooled leather portfolio to hold pictures.

We must by all means break up the set appearance of the three overstuffed pieces, and remember, too, that to give the small room an all-over carpeting or a room-size rug that is relatively plain will tend to increase the apparent size of the foundation.

The two well-balanced windows offer logically the point of interest, and since the walls are plain and neutral, it would be good to introduce color and pattern in the overcurtains. They might be of chintz or linen or cretonne in a design not too large, but rich and colorful. The background of the curtains may be cream or ecru, in harmony with the wall, with a design showing the fuchsia and mulberry tones combined with bluish greens, turquoise and gold shades. We would slip-cover at least the one chair near the sofa in this same material. For further variety the Cogswell chair could also have a slip of plain or self-colored fabric in blue-green welled in one of the fuchsia colors, but the chair would not be out of key if kept in the original coloring. For the seat and back of the new open-arm chair we would use a small figured material combining green and gold.

If a modern scheme is desired, it should be easy to find most interesting new fabrics for the curtains and covers specified. We would avoid the spectacular type of design and coloring. In the small room they become very boring, while the more conventional designs are more pleasing. We would avoid the spectacular type of design and coloring. In the small room they become very boring, while the more conventional

Flat Stands From Containers

ONE happy girl has just made several attractive flat stands for her small hats, and here is how she made them: She took in catfish cartons and cut it down to seven inches. (There are cylindrical tin cookie containers that will do nicely for this purpose.)

She put a padding on top to make it fit well in the round crown, then she covered the box with orchid crepe paper and tied a pink bow around it. The other box she covered with glazed chintz in a small pink floral design and decorated it with an orchid bow.

They look very pretty on her closet shelf. She likes them better than the usual stands because the stand holds the shape of her hat so nicely. She is making one for a Christmas gift and is covering that with velvet and decorating it with a stencil design.

These stands can be made stationary so they will not tip over. Tack the cover of box on the shelf, then put the carton in place with paste along the top edge to make it firm. The ribbon bow can be tied to conceal the break between the cover and box or the stand may be covered if it is made stationary.

When Washing Woolens

THE chief danger in washing woolen or partly woolen garments is in shrinking them and turning them yellow.

Make soap suds of good white soap flakes or powder in soft water. The water used should be about the same temperature throughout the washing and rinsing process. It should be such as the hand can comfortably bear. Do not rub soap directly on any wool fabric and do not rub the garment at all. Rubbing causes the fibers of the wool to knot and this thickens the fabric so it shrinks.

Use a kneading motion instead of rubbing, and squeeze them out of the suds. Never wring woolen articles with the hands. A clothes wringer is best to use as this squeezes the water out without injury to the fabric.

If the weather is such as to dry quickly, hang them in the open air to dry, otherwise dry them in a warm room but not too close to the fire.

A few drops of ammonia added to the water when washing white woolens will preserve the color and keep them soft.

About Rugs

To wash a rug, tack down on a clean floor, scrub well with soapuds and rinse thoroughly; leave it tacked down until dry to prevent shrinkage.

A rug will stay flat if you stitch a strip of oil cloth under each end of the rug or several old rubber jar rings at right angles at each corner.

LIGHTS! CAMERA! SHOOT!

BOBBY JONES in the movies:

DIRECTOR—Well, Mr. Jones, we're ready to shoot the scene this morning. How do you feel?

BOBBY—I feel nervous.

DIRECTOR—After all those big golf crowds you've played before, you feel nervous now? Well, don't worry. Outsiders are positively barred from this set.

BOBBY—When are you going to chase all these outsiders out?

DIRECTOR—Oh, these people here are only the camera men, technicians, carpenters, spotlight experts, script girls, assistant directors, sound synchronizers, electricians and supervisors that are working on your picture. We'll get started just as soon as the wardrobe mistresses show up.

BOBBY—The sooner I get this over, the better.

DIRECTOR—Mr. Jones, you ain't quite ready to start yet. You need about thirty-six mascara beads on the end of your eyelashes and more grease paint around your chin. Miss Frischbaum, will you fix Mr. Jones' makeup a little better and bring out the sex appeal in his eyes?

(Miss Frischbaum goes to work on Bobby's features with a barrel of cosmetics and a trunkload of eyebrow pencils.)

DIRECTOR—There, that's better. All right, boys—LIGHTS! Now, Mr. Jones, you make your famous drive from the tee.

BOB Y (addressing the ball in the regular Bobby Jones manner)—This is a 300-yard drive.

DIRECTOR—Oh, Mr. Jones, that's all wrong! You should hold the club so all ten fingernails face the camera. See? Like this.

BOBBY—But I nor anyone else could even hit the ball if the club is held that way.

DIRECTOR—Mr. Jones, we got to follow the technique of the movies. Never mind if you don't hit the ball. Our mechanical department can fake it.

BOBBY (holding club so his fingernails face the camera, and sighing)—Well, I'll try it, anyway. (He takes a practice swing.)

DIRECTOR—Excuse me, Mr. Jones, but that's terrible. You've got your head drooped over, looking at the ball.

BOBBY—I know it. If I don't keep my eye on the ball I can't hit it.

DIRECTOR—Mr. Jones, that ain't movie technique. When you take your swing at the ball, look straight at the camera. See? Like this.

BOBBY—I'll try, but I'll probably slice. (Bobby holds fingernails just right, looks at the camera as he swings and dribbles the ball.)

DIRECTOR—Mr. Jones, that was pretty good, but not quite okay. You should register confidence as you look in the camera.

BOBBY—It's hard to register confidence when I know I'll top the ball, but I'll try. (Bobby does everything right and drives the ball for thirty yards.)

DIRECTOR—Mr. Jones, that was fine. We'll cut in with a fake shot that shows the ball travelling 400 yards. Now, Mr. Jones, the script calls for you to have a trust with Clara Bow under the apple tree before you go down the fairway to make your approach shot.

BOBBY—I thought this film was going to be educational.

DIRECTOR—If it is! But we got to have love interest between strokes.

BOBBY—Can't we just take the golf shots today and do the love interest later?

DIRECTOR—If you wish to, Mr. Jones, okay.

(Bobby goes through and makes the first hole in par 4.)

DIRECTOR—That'll be all for today, Mr. Jones. But in the second reel we have a guy dressed up in Charlie Chaplin shoes and pants and Harold Lloyd glasses to act as your caddy. That brings in the comic relief.

BOBBY—But, look here—

DIRECTOR—Now you better go home and get rested, Mr. Jones, because the script tomorrow calls for you to make a hole in one and then beat the Royal Northwest Mounted Police to the club house and win the girl.

(Bobby goes back to the hotel and burns up all his clubs.)

THIS AND THAT

Buffalo hotels will try to banish gaiety on New Year's Eve—News item.

They might try raising the cover charge to $15 a head.

Gene Tunney has joined the Pundits Club at Yale. And now if U. of P. will tap him for the Sock and Buskin, his record will be complete.

A double kidnapping plot has been discovered in Hollywood. It sounds as if two superpictures were about to be released.

As we understand it, one of Notre Dame's four horsemen got fired from college for trying to shake loose from his halter.

That revolution idea couldn't spread any faster if it was a new kind of tree-sitting fad.

Bobby Jones' hardest task in the pictures will be to look pleasant when he misses a two-foot putt.

NEW DISTRICTS FOR CONGRESS PLANNED

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 1.—In a measure announced today by Assemblyman Percy G. West, of Sacramento, reapportionment of California's congressional and assembly districts on the basis of 1930 census is planned. The measure will be given to the 1931 legislature.

Outstanding features of the bill are:

Congressional districts will be based on a total of 20 members in congress, and an average of 283,412 persons to a district; assembly districts on a total of 80 members, 70,853 persons to a district. Seven of the proposed new congressional districts will be in southern California, six being in the city of Los Angeles.

One new congressional district would be added in northern California, composed of Contra Costa and part of Alameda counties.

One congressional district would be halfway between the north and south, comprising Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Kern, Tulare and Inyo counties.

Southern California would control the state assembly, receiving 48 of the new assembly districts. San Francisco would lose three assemblymen.

"When the rural counties asked for the federal plan of legislative reapportionment, we promised that when congressional and assembly redistricting was done on a basis of the 1930 census, we wouldn't whimper," said West. "This proposed measure is carrying out both the spirit and the letter of our promise."

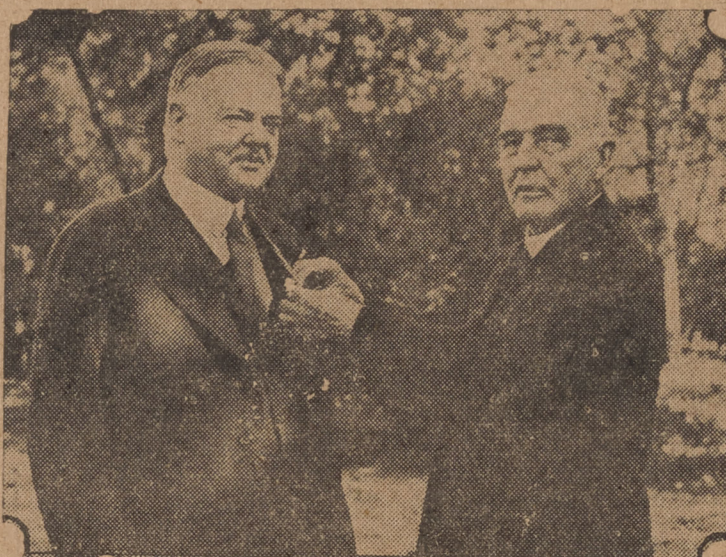

Under the proposal outlined, the third congressional district which now includes Contra Costa county, along with Solano, Yolo, San Joaquin, Napa and Sacramento counties, would consist of Sutter, Sacramento, Yolo and San Joaquin counties.

As noted above, Contra Costa would be thrown into a district with part of Alameda county. Solano and Napa counties would be thrown into the first district, which includes the other Redwood Empire and northern California counties.

Under this plan, Contra Costa, Solano and Napa counties would lose the services of Congressman C. F. Curry, Jr., recently elected to succeed his late father, Charles F. Curry.

BILLINGS PLEA DENIED BY COURT

cases as similar and that similar treatment will be accorded both Mooney and Billings. This indicates he will use the courts decision in the Billings case as a guide in disposing of Mooney's pardon application.

The decision, announced shortly after noon by Chief Justice William H. Waste, climaxed a dramatic fight for freedom carried on for 14 years by friends of the men. These friends had hoped, in the face of discouraging reports, that members of the court would compromise by recommending that Billings' sentence be commuted but commutation was not recommended.

Justice William Langdon, who once before favored an unconditional pardon for Billings, voted the same way today. He was a hopeless minority, however, as the other six justices signed a majority opinion which declined to recommend a pardon. The vote was the same as that recorded last July when the court rejected a Billings pardon petition the first time.

Key Witness

After the court rejected Billings' plea last July, Governor Young denied the Mooney petition but announced that John MacDonald, who had repudiated original trial evidence by affidavit, be found and returned to California.

MacDonald was located in Baltimore and returned here where he told a special session of the court that he lied when he identified Mooney and Billings as the bombers. Many other witnesses were summoned also, the session being virtually a re-trial of the Billings murder trial. Evidence gathered then was considered in arriving at the unfavorable decision returned today.

Judges who voted to refuse the pardon were Chief Justice William H. Waste, Associate Justices John W. Richards, Jesse William Curtis, Emmett Seawell, John W. Preston and John W. Shenk.

Communication Told

In a communication to Governor Young the six justices said: "The petitioner is not now entitled to the presumption of innocence but stands here with the burden resting on him to satisfy the pardoning power that he is entitled to executive clemency."

"We are of the view that the petitioner, Warren K. Billings, has not made out a case for the granting of a pardon, and we are accordingly unable to recommend that such action be taken."

"Mr. Justice William H. Langdon recommends that executive clemency be granted."

Mooney Has Chance

As matters now stand, the status of Mooney is better than that of Billings. Mooney has a chance of being pardoned by other governors but the Billings case is hopeless unless the supreme court reverses it and recommends favorably in his behalf.

Governor Young leaves office the first of the year. James Rolph Jr., succeeds him. Rolph has never declared himself on the case, other than to say it will be disposed of immediately should it ever come before him.

The minute the decisions were made public friends of Mooney and Billings started plans for renewing the fight that started 14 years ago when the men were arrested and charged with murder.

December Wheat Deliveries Start

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—UP—Deliveries on December wheat futures contracts amounting to many millions of bushels, were started today to the Grain Stabilization corporation, federal farm board subsidiary.

The grain corporation already has between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 bushels of wheat in storage. Its recent campaign to stop the decline of wheat at 73 cents a bushel is thought to have added possibly another 50,000,000 bushels mostly purchased in futures contracts.

Officials have announced that the first block of wheat will not be offered for re-sale until the country's surplus has been disposed of, the later purchase may be sold at any time.
